Who'd be a magic student, eh? With mad teachers and demons just lying in wait around every corner, hiding in every nook and cranny, tonnes of weird and wonderful homework? Add to that perplexing personal potion any number of friendships and feuds and other potentially world-ending elements inclined to collide! Grab on tight, `coz this is gonna be one crazy ride!

With comics as the halfway house between the descriptive paragraphs of books and the visual panache of the small and silver screen, where better for tales of derring-do and astonishing acts of heroism to be played out? Bursting out of each panel, you're in for a real treat as such awesome names as Zint, Clay, and Puppeteer showcase their creative talents just for you!

HOPE

Author	Zint
Titles	1 – 10 (completed)
Type	Series
Language published	Chinese & Malay
Target readers	18 & up
Size and Chromaticity	140 mm x 203 mm, 136 pp / black and white

How can survival be achieved in the absence of hope? That is the pivotal question Zint asks his pair of protagonists as they stare despair in the face, Venturing forth into a world devoid of reason, what purpose can be given to their continued defiance other than the neverending quest for love, for family?

It is said that when creativity is allowed to run wild it delves into the dark depths of the unexplored. Nowhere is this more true than when you consider our forays into the hair-raising territory of horror. With masters of the macabre like Puyuh, Oga, Nizam Bachok, and other connoisseurs of the crazy and creepy, you are never safe from the next blood-curdling read!
